

TENURE-TRACK FACULTY CHEMISTRY ASSISTANT PROFESSOR – Physical Chemistry

Louisiana Tech University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Chemistry. The hire will have expertise in Physical Chemistry with preference given to individuals with verifiable Experimental capabilities and interests and Instrumental/Spectroscopic experience.

Louisiana Tech University has been consistently ranked in the top 200 best colleges and universities by US News & World Report. Chemistry is part of the College of Engineering & Science, which offers a unique multidisciplinary, team-oriented educational and research environment (<http://coes.latech.edu/>). Major research infrastructure and investments at Louisiana Tech are represented by multiple interdisciplinary research centers (<http://coes.latech.edu/research-centers/>). To build a diverse workforce the college encourages applications from individuals with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women.

Candidates must have earned doctorates in chemistry or a closely related field. The successful candidate will initiate, build, and sustain a strong externally funded research program, supervise masters and doctoral students, possess excellent written and oral communication skills, have strong teaching skills, display a commitment to high quality professional service, and actively participate in college responsibilities. Preference will be given to applicants whose research expertise and interests align well with one or more of the interdisciplinary research centers.

Review of applications and nominations will begin on November 1, 2017 and continue until a suitable candidate is identified, with a projected start date of September 1, 2018.

To apply, send curriculum vitae, statement of research interests and goals, a description of teaching experience, philosophy, and interests, a copy of graduate transcript(s), and names and contact information for at least three references in a single PDF file to chemsearch@latech.edu with the subject line "Last Name, First Initial – Physical Chemistry."
